Little Money, Big Result
Can You See Four Dimensions?
Educating Amanullah
The Young Wing Killer

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WITH A LITTLE MONEY you can do much these days. For instance, with only $200,000 a group in Wall Street, with J. P. Morgan's company at the head, are planning a merger of corporations totalling two billions of dollars. One share in ten plus brains will control almost anything.

Even the Rockefeller family, according to official statement, have less than 15 per cent of the various Standard Oil Companies.

The latest two-billion-dollar combination has to do with power, gas and public service corporations.

The time has gone by for crying your eyes out over big combinations.

If they promote efficiency and give the public a share of the savings, they are good for the public.

If not, console yourself with the thought that if the public is not intelligent enough to watch and control one big combination, it surely wouldn't have the intelligence to watch a dozen little combinations.

Einstein, considered by some the greatest mind in abstract mathematics since Newton, delivers to the Prussian Academy of Science a manuscript of five pages, dealing with the interrelations between mechanics and electrodynamics.

This new contribution to science is expected to revolutionize man's conception of the universe.

Einstein devoted 10 years to writing the five pages, which presents the universe as existing in four dimensions, instead of only three, length, breadth and depth.

LIBERTY LEAGUE ASKS REPEAL OF 'DRY' LAW

The effect of the recent State referendum on prohibition was felt today when the Massachusetts Legislature was petitioned to memorialize Congress expressing its favor for a repeal of the 18th amendment.

The petition for the bill was presented by the Constitutional Liberty League "in accordance with the will of the people expressed in the November election," and was filed by Senator Erlend F. Fish, Brookline.

The petition points to the overwhelming vote of "yes" on the referendum. It was balloted on the 26th of the 40 Senatorial Districts, and carried 24 of them. The total vote of 707,352 in favor, to 427,583, opposed was pointed out by the league.

The majority under these figures, was 284,597, the petition said, adding that the number of voters who failed to ballot on the question was 315,445.

WARNER TO QUIZ FUCHS, ADAMS IN SPORT PROBE

Besides assigning a police inspector today to seek O. J. Brann, missing "chief witness" in the State probe of Sunday sports, Atty. Gen. Warner let it be known that President Fuchs and Vice-President Adams of the Braves will eventually be questioned by him in this connection.

Another leading development in the tangle today was announcement by City Clerk Richard Stone of Walworth that the Sunday sports acceptance measure had not the same "rate in the Watch City that it enjoyed elsewhere."

A complete novel in six days.

Sharkey in $100,000 Contract

By GEORGE W. CHISM

Jack Sharkey will receive $100,000 for fighting William "Young" Stribling of Georgia at Miami Beach, Fla., on Feb. 27, but he will have no percentage privilege.

Tex Rickard had offered the Hay heavy a purse of $100,000 or 25 per cent of the gate receipts, which he expected to reach the half million mark.

20 IN PERIL OF DENSE SMOKE

Fire, for which three alarms were sounded, swept the Cambridge Salvage Supply Co., in the rear of 95 Broadway, Cambridge, late today, threatening for a time to spread to other structures in the heavily congested industrial district.

A score of firemen, battling inside the blazing building to prevent spread of the flames, were affected by thick yellow smoke from burning paper.

A number of automobile trucks were believed to have been destroyed.

The place in which the fire started is an iron-walled addition to the rear of a two-story brick building, numbered 87 1/2 Broadway.

Other tenants of the building are the Power Lash Shaver Co., the Friedman Plumbing Supply Co., Briceco, Hoss (clothing) and the Acme Road Machinery Co.

In a building adjoining that in which the fire was a large supply of kerosene and a highly explosive liquid used in the manufacture of an insecticide.

No gas masks were available for the firemen and the crew of Engine 6, first on the scene, fought in a dense billow of smoke which forced them to retire from time to time.

No threatening was the blaze that Chief Casey ordered a third alarm sounded immediately after the first. This called all available apparatus in the city.

The fire drew a huge crowd, kept in control by police reserves. Lines of hose laid across Broadway forced a detour of traffic for more than an hour and a half.

CURLEY AS NEXT MAYOR INVITES KNIGHTS HERE

James M. Curley is going to be the next mayor of Boston. He says so himself.

And if there was any doubt that he would be a candidate at the polls next November he has just given question about it any longer.

Speaking today at the annual meeting of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts at the Parker House, the ex-mayor of Boston tossed his gauntlet into the arena.

"It's not the custom in this state to give a mayor a vacation," he said.

"But I contemplate, however, returning to the position some time next January, and in proof of that the national order of Knights Templar requested me to extend their invitations to hold their conventions in Boston next year."

"I have done so, and they both have agreed to come."

Mayor Nichols was not present to hear this revelation, so the gathering of mayors, corporate controllers and other municipal notables was held in his absence.

FORMER STATE EMPLOYEE SOUGHT IN R. I. SLAYING

Howard R. F., Jan. 12.—Search for the slayer of Dr. Isaac H. Bartwell, superintendent of the State Hospital for Mental Diseases, took a new turn today when the authorities eliminated former inmates of the institution from suspicion.

It was declared that the man who thrust the muzzle of a shotgun through the library of the superintendent's home and discharged two rounds of birdshot at him as he sat in a chair writing a telegram, was in full possession of his faculties.

After reconstructing the crime the authorities were convinced that the slayer carefully planned and executed the crime, going to the scene from Providence.

WILKINS' PARTY STORES SUPPLIES AND PLANES

ENOUGH LEFT FOR ANOTHER SEASON

BY CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the White Star Antarctic Expedition

Deception Island (Antarctica), Jan. 11 (Friday) (Via San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—Having decided to postpone further exploration this season, we are now busy storing our supplies and equipment and making things ship-shape for our return to civilization.

UNUSUAL SEASON

The unusual season being experienced here is responsible for our decision to abandon further efforts at the present time. The erratic occurrence of whales in these waters this year has made it impossible for us to economically use, as we had expected, a whale catcher for our late summer work.

Today we have been busy preparing a safe place to store our equipment, the gasoline, oil and food supplies. These will be stored in a snow-proof iron building and so be protected from any possible damage or loss. We have ample supplies for another full season's work.

ALL ASHORE BOON

It will be necessary to remove only the wings from the airplanes in order to store them in the huge hangar-like building loaned to us for that purpose by our ever-helpful friends the Hektor Whaling Company.

In two or three days everything should be snug ashore and well protected from the snow and sleet and high Antarctic winds.

BOSTON-BOUND MEN LANDED AT PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Jan. 12 (AP)—

A thrilling tale of the rescue of 27 men from the German steamer Bodelschwim was related today by the rescued men when they landed from the steamship Sagadahoc, which covered their call for help.

The Bodelschwim, with a cargo of mail and passengers, was last seen on Jan. 6, when it was reported to have been lost in the Atlantic. The Sagadahoc was sent to search for it and on Jan. 11 it was located.

When Cecil Beaton, London artist-photographer, dropped into New York and announced that Norma Shearer, pictured here, had eyes like tadpoles, he started something.

James Montgomery Flagg, famous painter of American women, pointed to the picture of Catherine Dale Owen, actress, and called her the most beautiful woman in the United States—England, and added that the rangy, gawky type constitutes "beauty" in England.

Flagg scored again—countering to Beaton's characterization of New York's debutante as "monstrous" by casually selecting this picture of Miss Grace B. Birge, New York "deb."

Coolidge Has No Future Plans, Says Ex-Governor Cox

President Coolidge has yet had no plans concerning his activities after leaving the White House, in the opinion of ex-Governor Charles H. Cox expressed today on his return from Washington.

While at the Capitol the two former governors of Massachusetts lunched together at the White House, and chatted of the time when President Coolidge was the chief executive and Cox was lieutenant governor.

Asked if the President had made any revelation as to his plans for the future, ex-Governor Cox would only say:

"I don't think the President has any plans yet."

GRIPPLE SAVED BY 2 BOYS AT LYNN FIRE

David Gripp, 65, an almost helpless cripple, was rescued by two boys today when fire destroyed his home in Union Court, Lynn.

Just newly double by accident, Gripp was carried to safety by Kenneth A. Ester, 15, and his brother William, 14, also of Union Court, who with Edward May Jr., 12, of the same street, were taking hot soup to the aged man for his lunch.

On the way to Gripp's home the boys saw smoke, and the Ester brothers started shouting. May Jr. gave the alarm. Drying the coats, the boys ran to the house, the fire of which was in the kitchen.

Dashing inside they found Gripp, with earphones on, listening to the radio. Gripp and William snatched off the earphones, and out him out of the house and into the home of a neighbor.

Just as the fire was about to reach the living room, the boys had given the alarm and the fire department had arrived. The fire was extinguished and the house was saved.

One result, the children believe, was to bring some of the neighborhood to the attention of the fire department.

Plight of 7 at Home Saves Malden Man From Jail

Nine children at home won leniency for Michael Sobushewski, of Stearns st., Malden, when he was arraigned in Malden court today charged with assaulting his nine-year-old son, John.

After Sobushewski admitted he had punished the boy for truancy from school, Judge Alfred C. Davis suspended a 30-day sentence, pointing out it would be a hardship on the children to send the father to jail.

Harford, and claid into in underclothing, John ran from his home yesterday night to escape his father's wrath, he told police.

At the home of Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, nearby, he was found to be suffering from a cut on the head and a severe welt on the body.

DEATH CLAIMS FORMER MAYOR

News of the death of Edward F. Wilford, 60, former mayor of Malden, was received today by Mrs. Wilford, his wife.

Mrs. Wilford, his wife, was notified of the death of her husband by a telegram from a friend in Malden with his wife on a trip to the city.

Mrs. Wilford served as mayor of Malden from 1915 to 1917, and worked many important projects in the city. He was a member of the Chelsea Memorial Hospital, having been appointed to that office only one month ago.

Mrs. Wilford suffered all her life from a building disease of the heart. The body was shipped to Malden and the funeral service will be at the home of his daughter in Malden.

Court Bars Buyers of Rum From Jury

Marysville, Cal., Jan. 12 (AP)—A member of a jury panel who admitted purchase of a bottle of rum was disqualified by Judge E. P. McDaniel when attorneys were selected a jury in the Albert Nordlund, hotel man, charged with illegal possession of liquor.

"If you buy a bottle of liquor you are a rum drinker," said the judge, and trying a defendant charged with possession of a jury whose members admit the charge how would he be getting a jury of buyers to try a man charged with burglary," said the court.

STAGE AND SCREEN

Aha! Not to Be Sneezed At
William Powell, a principal conversationalist in "Interference," new all-walker at the Olympia and Fenway, sends in a worthy address to the "Smiles" or "Cute Baby Sayings" Editor. Referring to book agents and bill collectors he says: "As welcome as hay fever on a second-hand stage."

THE FILMS, RESTLESS PURVEYORS OF ROMANCE, PERSIST IN UNCEASING ACTIVITY

"ADORATION" is the title of this little lusterless tale. And if all this goes with the uniform, we're off to join the Molligan towards or the Elevated as soon as possible. Billie Dove is the actress and Antonio Moreno the actor, so to speak.

"THE TIT HAS COME," said the waltz, "in a number of rambles and kingholes; I am a miser, stand man and I must live my own life." Chester Conklin and Ethel Wales in "Taxi 52," Keith Albee.

"TIS NOT FOR GOLD I'VE COME, SIR," groans the poorly dressed woman, "but for the cheat you took from me 10 years ago." Evelyn Brent and William Powell in "Interference," at the Olympia and Fenway.

ARCHAIC and baroque innocence features the magnificent film, "Sunrise," wherein Janet Gaynor and George O'Brien are a couple that will bring the unblinded tear to your eye. (Metropolitan).

"SUNRISE" IS PEAK OF SCREEN ART

By LEO GAFFNEY
If Fred Murnau's "Sunrise" does not mark the dawn of a new era for the motion picture, then Frank and Benny have no place on the screen. We have seen it at the Metropolitan and, half an hour later, as this is written, we are still exhilarated from this experience. In another 24 hours the haze may lift and society return, but in that case we will only rush right back to the Metropolitan and have another. In fact for the next six days we will probably be powerless to pass the theater without dropping in for an odd bracer. It's a hopeless case.

WHILE "Sunrise" is an absolute work of art as the screen has ever shown—and that goes for all the "masterpieces" it does not forget that it's a motion picture for motion picture audiences. It has a hero, a heroine, a triangle, conflict, etc., a storm, a moon, a ship, a rescue, love in a cottage, a baby, a happy ending and one or two more old fundamentals.

BUT you notice this familiar setup treated so gloriously. The hero is the antithesis of the powdered leading man. He is a dishwasher with ill-fitting clothes, sweat-soaked hair and an absolute no-nonsense attitude. His heroine, his wife, is innocent to the point of stupidity, but she enters like a bolt and is very pretty and intelligent.

THE other side of the triangle, the villain, is a man whose name is in the list of famous names. He is a dishwasher, but he is a dishwasher in a different way. He is a dishwasher who is a dishwasher in a different way. He is a dishwasher who is a dishwasher in a different way.

OFFICIALS AT CHMELINSKI FUNERAL

With her usual calmness, the widow, and former president of the board of appeals, the funeral of Mrs. Bernard Chmelinski, 72-year-old Brooklyn high school teacher, was held today at South Boston.

Among those present were former Mayor James M. Curley, Joseph A. Fossano, of the board of appeals, William T. A. Fitzsimons, register of deeds, Edward J. Leahy, city assessor, and former Congressman William F. McNary.

A solemn mass was sung at Our Lady of the Sacred Heart Church, Dorchester, by the Rev. John Chmiel, pastor. The Rev. P. J. Lyons of Mattapan was chorist, and the Rev. T. C. Roe, Jamaica, substituted.

Mrs. Chmelinski died Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, after an operation necessary as a result of injuries.

BOOTH TO FIGHT IN COURT FOR ARMY CONTROL

London, Jan. 12 (AP)—There was some indication today that Gen. Bramwell Booth might refuse to resign as head of the Salvation Army and take the matter to the courts.

The high council of the army was requested to allow William A. Joyce, Joyce's counsel, who was then retained to act for the general, to attend the council session and address the members. It was felt in some circles that the engagement of Mr. Joyce might mean the dispute was to end in a lawsuit over control of the army's property.

Dispatch to the Daily Herald from Southwold, where Gen. Booth is ill, said it was understood there on good authority that he intended to fight to the last ditch against the high council's efforts to resign him.

It was stated that if the council decided to dismiss him he was prepared to take the matter to court.

Gen. Booth promised the seven officials who presented a resolution asking his retirement that he would accept their request on Monday. Meanwhile the deputation was to report to the high council meeting at Southwold on Thursday.

Surprise Party Is Cause of Boy's Death

Weston, Jan. 12 (AP)—A boy, 11, died at Dartford, Kent, after he had been taken by several boys and did not come home until several preparations were being made for a surprise party at his home. Efforts of military forces to rescue him failed on Monday morning. When the boy was taken to the hospital, he was found to have been strangled.

Finally the firemen, led by Deputy Chief Joseph Army, forced a rescue through the thick ice and recovered the body with grappling hooks.

THIRD SLAYER TELLS HOW HE SLEW WITCH

York, Pa., Jan. 12 (INS)—His pals (see instant newsreel), Wilbert Hoss, 14, took the witness stand here today and related the details of his part in the slaying of John Behmeyer, a 49-year-old farmer whom he believed to be a "witch."

The defense of Hoss opened with Atty. Harvey A. Gross addressing the jury. He told the jurors that Hoss, as well as his father and mother, believed in "such fanatical and ridiculous things as witches."

He said Wilbert was influenced by John Behmeyer, the convicted lawyer doctor, who got him as John Curry to go to Behmeyer's home to obtain a lock of the old man's hair.

"Behmeyer was the master mind in this killing," declared Gross.

Both Behmeyer and Curry have been found guilty and given life sentences in the murder.

Hoss testified that when he was arrested he admitted he had hit Behmeyer "once or twice" when the latter was being murdered.

"Behmeyer came to our home," said Hoss, and read a few lines from the Bible. He said he would have to get a lock of Behmeyer's hair. He said he would need help. He said he would need someone to hold down the man, someone with force.

"I said I thought I could hold my nerve. My father and I would be able to go for the lock of hair to break the spell."

Hoss described how he, Behmeyer and Curry went to Behmeyer's home, overpowered the old man and killed him. He identified a broken chair Behmeyer used in killing Behmeyer.

The trio were in the house about minutes, the witness estimated. Hoss was asked if he was excited when they were killing Behmeyer. Hoss replied, "I was scared." He denied he had set Behmeyer on fire. "Behmeyer did that," he said.

Auto "Master Mind" Suspect Is Indicted

Alleged by the police to be the "master mind" behind the so-called auto ring thieves who have operated throughout Massachusetts and New Hampshire, Horace B. Childen, held in Charles at jail in $50,000 bonds, has been indicted by the Suffolk County grand jury.

Also indicted with Childen was George F. Collins.

Analyzes Handwriting of Dorchester Man

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologist

DEAR MISS RICE: I have an innate ability for writing. Naturally, this ability has influenced me to select journalism as my future career.

Well—Ted, I wouldn't put it quite as strongly as you do. Not quite. You are, undoubtedly, a great deal about innate ability for anything, and especially for the arts and especially for writing.

"The graphologist may hesitate and doubt and wonder whether a certain subject is fitted to win success as a journalist, a singer or an actor—but writing—that's something which is pretty plain, at least as far as the 'innate tendency' is concerned."

I do not believe that you really have that innate tendency, Ted.

Now, before you feel over just stop to hear the rest of it. I am sure of your refined tastes and of your love of good literature and of your interest in the general news of the day.

I am sure that you have the instinct which appreciates the written word. This is, however, very different from the writing ability which is so strong as to be innate.

"What I estimate about you is, that you are really fitted for general association with the writing art. I think that you would make a good sub-editor."

You might do well as a reader on it.

Don't Miss It.
I have an innate ability as this ability has influenced me to select journalism as my future career.

Have Your Handwriting Analyzed

Send a sample of your handwriting to Miss Louise Rice, noted graphologist, for analysis. Write plainly on unruled paper, in ink or pencil, adding your usual signature.

To cover clerical costs enclose 10c in silver or stamps. Also enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. The individual analysis will be returned to you within the period of one or two weeks.

Miss Rice replies only to such questions as can be answered through the science of graphology. Write your name and address on both the sample to be analyzed and the coupon below. Letters will not be published if sender requests otherwise.

MISS LOUISE RICE,

INDOOR CRUISE. The University of Pennsylvania crew captain, Charles Krampe, is working at the rowing machine while Assistant Coach Mathews and Head Coach Rusty Callow look on. It was at the first workout held in the U. of P. gymnasium.

PROMISING PUNCHER. Tommy Rawson, an East Boston lad, is showing well among the 135-pounders. He has been picking up a lot of experience and might bloom forth as a leading professional one of these days.

YOUTHFUL SENSATION. Horton Smith, recent winner of the Catalina open, who has scored the best midwinter tournament average of the huge army of fairway stars. Smith is but 20 years old. He has been playing startling golf in Southern California. His home is in Joplin, Mo.

ROYAL WINNER. Prince Bertil, third son of the Swedish Crown Prince, who recently won the national skating races for students at Stockholm, Sweden. The prince not only finished first, but broke the existing record.

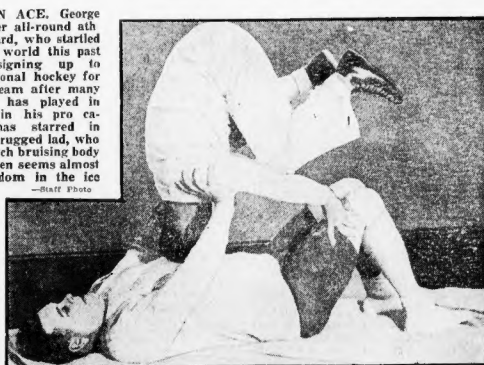

WILL DEFEND TITLE. Miss Albina Ospowich, who will try to keep her New England A. A. U. 500-yard free-style crown from a large field at Whitinsville next Saturday. Miss Ospowich is a favorite to retain it, although a brilliant array will compete against her.

NORTHEASTERN'S JEWEL. Herb Tiffany, forward on the Northeastern basketball team, has averaged sixteen points in all the games thus far. If he keeps up the pace he's bound to surpass the collegiate mark of 250 for a season. Tiffany is a star in four sports at the Huntington ave. college.

BARRELS OF FUN. That is, it's fun if you carry over the entire lot and then land as you started. The jumper, shown above, hurled himself over ten barrels during a winter festival at Toronto, Ontario. It's just as easy to him as eating dinner. Great speed, spring and balance is necessary to perform this stunt.

KING OF CLOUT KEEPS IN CONDITION. Babe Ruth, ruler of the land of Slam, is shown going through his reducing stunts with Artie McGovern in the latter's New York gymnasium. Ruth is planning another great season on the diamond, but he is carrying a lot of poundage at present. The Babe is sure he'll be fit when it's time to pack the bags for the Southern training camps.

"Tex Rickard and the Ring"—The True Story of the SEVERAL so-called life stories of Tex Rickard have appeared in print since the death of the great promoter. All read about the same, disclosing nothing that the public has not known for years.

The authentic story of Rickard's career has yet to be told, but the one and only man who knows it, Jack Dempsey, has written it, and it will start on these pages on Monday.

It is truly the ring story of the century, this biography of the world's greatest promoter by the world's greatest fighter. No true lover of the boxing game can afford to miss it.

Rickard's career was packed with action from beginning to end. So is Jack Dempsey's story of the promoter's life, which will be told in 12 daily installments.

There is nothing uninteresting in the narrative. There is no legend about his childhood days, no hearsay about his life previous to the time he became interested in boxing. It is all about his most colorful career as monarch of the boxing world.

Starting with an account of the staging of the Gans-Nelson bout in Goldfield, Nevada, more than 20 years ago, which was Rickard's first promotion, Dempsey explains how and why the deceased promoter rose step by step until he reached unbelievable heights in the sports world and carried the ring game along with him to a place of power, popularity and prosperity. Every chapter of such a story is of necessity a thriller and you will miss much if you miss a single line of "Tex Rickard and the Ring," by Jack Dempsey.

MR. BOSTON bumped into Father Bill Cuddy at the office of Col. Bob McKinley on Washington st.

"Of course you are going to drop in at my international amateur boxing tournament at the Boston Garden on Monday night," said Father Bill Cuddy.

"Did you mention you sent me a couple of Chinese tickets?" queried the visitor as an innocent smile played across his weather beaten face.

"Here they are," chimed Father Bill as he produced Annie Cuddy and her twin sister, Kate.

"I suppose you already know," went on the amateur boxing king, "that the best boxers from Pittsburgh, New York, Montreal and Boston will do their stuff in the Garden ring on Monday night."

"That will be the chance in all which should furnish the gallery with plenty of action."

"What are the classes?" asked Mr. Boston.

"This year there is the tournament was due to the two punched tickets he had in his pocket.

"There will be bouts at 112, 125, 135 and at 160 pounds and in the heavyweights," chimed Father Bill. "Each city will enter a boxer in each class. This means that there will be 20 different mix flingers in the international brawls."

"In addition, there will be open classes at 112, 118, 125, 135, 147 and 160 pounds. We always try to give action."

Col. BOB MCKINLEY stopped tinkering with the radio.

"Now that Father Bill has told you all about his amateur show, I would like to say a few words about the Arena Club," piped the colonel. "Beginning a week from Monday night the Arena Club will be in the field each week with popular priced shows. The work will be only 10 cents to $2."

"We shall feature local boys like I did when staging the matches for the Commercial A. C. at its Old Home of Action in Bowdoin sq."

"It is also quite enough for anybody to develop a few local heroes. Other than a half dozen boxers, New England has not any outstanding attractions. The reason for this is because our youngsters are not encouraged. The local boys are undertrained and are not given the best of the best from other parts of the country."

"I also believe that the Arena Club will make a hit with the fans. The Arena can care for 15,000 persons which will give all who care to do so an opportunity to see our shows."

THE two greatest figures in the promotion of boxing were James W. Coffroth of San Francisco and Tex Rickard.

Boxing in New York was at a low ebb before Rickard came. He had promoted shows in the West and had been successful.

When he took over old Madison Square Garden he threw a dinner for the local scribes at the Baltimore and sat back as the boys made speeches questioning his ability to make money with boxing shows and paying $25,000 a year rent for the garden running one show a week.

Tex and Coffroth, just before boxing had ended as he pulled on a big pipe, looked at each other and said, "We are going to make a show of the boys who are going to be in the Garden."

Tex remembered all those things about the boys who were going to be in the Garden. He remembered all those things about the boys who were going to be in the Garden. He remembered all those things about the boys who were going to be in the Garden.

Tex Was Trained to Be Great Showman

By JACK DEMPSEY

Former World's Heavyweight Champion

TEX RICKARD, the greatest showman of all time, had a perfect training for his successful career as a promoter. Many declared it was Rickard luck that made his exploitations a success.

But those who really knew Rickard as I did, realize that it was his long study of human nature that permitted him to make unusual and startling decisions and know that they would turn out to be big drawing cards.

Tex, it must be remembered, knew life at the top and bottom. He started his career as a cow puncher working on the ranges of Texas. Later he rode the ranges of South America. These were the days that called for real "Tex" and Rickard was a pioneer.

In South Africa he did mining expeditions for pearls in the shark-infested waters. After that, who was his companion for the rest of his life? He could sense no slightest reactions and then show up the startling of them that was necessary.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Boston Evening American Staff Photographs of Junior Leaguers who turn to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" as their next expression of theatrical genius. Elizabeth Peabody Playhouse hums with activities these days—as fair amateurs become painters, designers, carpenters and what not. Above, Miss Jane Gutfeld is "knitting a design."

Miss Jane Megrew goes about the business seriously.

The Albert Morton Creightons Entertain for Daughter Constance With Dance at Hotel Somerset

A LITTLE OF THE SPARK OF THE PORTLAND SEASON WAS LAST EVENING at the Hotel Somerset, where the Creightons entertained for their daughter, Constance, a dance. The event was a success, and the guests enjoyed the evening very much.

Miss Jane Gutfeld is "knitting a design" for the Junior League. She is a member of the league and is very active in its work.
